EASTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

BRIAN FISCHLER, Individually and on behalf of all other persons similarly situated,

Plaintiff,

v.

BETMGM, LLC D/B/A BETMGM

Defendant.

ECF CASE

No.: _____

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

INTRODUCTION

1. Plaintiff Brian Fischler, who is legally blind, brings this civil rights action against Defendant BetMGM, LLC d/b/a BetMGM (“Defendant”) for its failure to design, construct, maintain, and operate its website, <https://sports.ny.betmgm.com/en/sports> (the “Website”), to be fully accessible to and independently usable by Plaintiff Fischler and other blind or visually-impaired people. Defendant denies full and equal access to its Website.

2. Plaintiff Fischler, individually and on behalf of others similarly situated, asserts claims under the Americans With Disabilities Act (“ADA”), New York State Human Rights Law (“NYSHRL”), and New York City Human Rights Law (“NYCHRL”) against Defendant.

3. Plaintiff Fischler seeks a permanent injunction to cause Defendant to change its corporate policies, practices, and procedures so that its Website will become and remain accessible to blind and visually-impaired consumers.

THE PARTIES

4. Plaintiff Fischler is, at all relevant times, a resident of Astoria, New York, Queens County. As a blind, visually-impaired handicapped person, he is a member of a protected class of individuals under Title III of the ADA, under 42 U.S.C. § 12102(1)-(2), and the regulations implementing the ADA set forth at 28 CFR §§ 36.101 et seq., the NYSHRL and NYCHRL.

5. Upon information and belief, Defendant is at all relevant times a foreign limited liability company that is organized under Colorado law and is authorized to do business in the State of New York. Defendant does business in the State by marketing its Website and its live sports betting services to consumers in the State of New York.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

6. This Court has subject-matter jurisdiction over this action under 28 U.S.C. § 1331 and 42 U.S.C. § 12181, as Plaintiff Fischler's claims arise under Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12181, et seq., and 28 U.S.C. § 1332.

7. This Court has supplemental jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1337 over Plaintiff Fischler's NYSHRL, N.Y. Exec. Law Article 15, and NYCHRL, N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-101 et seq., claims.

8. Venue is proper in this District under 28 U.S.C. §1391(b)(2), because a substantial part of the events giving rise to the claims occurred in this District: Plaintiff Fischler is a resident of this District and he has attempted to access the Website in this District and, in doing so, was denied full use and enjoyment of the facilities, goods, and services of the Website while in Queens County.

9. This Court is empowered to issue a declaratory judgment under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202.

NATURE OF ACTION

10. The COVID-19 pandemic has shifted the world into an almost entirely online model. Restaurants need a website for customers to place pick-up and delivery orders. Entertainment venues are delivering performances to audiences via their Websites or other online streaming services. Our educational institutions, including private schools and Universities have shifted to a virtual classroom with distance-learning being the new normal. Furthermore, with store closures or capacity limitations, stores are relying on their Websites to serve as the fundamental point of contact between their business and consumers. In order for blind and visually impaired consumers to access these Websites, they must use screen reading software.

11. Blind and visually impaired users of Windows operating system-enabled computers and devices have several screen-reading software programs available to them. Some of these programs are available for purchase and other programs are available without the user having to purchase the program separately. Job Access With Speech (“JAWS”) is currently the most popular, separately purchased and downloaded screen-reading software program available for a Windows computer.

12. For screen-reading software to function, the information on a website must be capable of being rendered into text. If the website content is not capable of being rendered into text, the blind or visually impaired user is unable to access the same content available to sighted users.

13. The international website standards organization, the World Wide Web Consortium, known throughout the world as W3C, has published version 2.1 Levels A and AA of the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (“WCAG 2.1”). WCAG 2.1 are well-established guidelines for making websites accessible to blind and visually impaired people. These guidelines are universally followed by most large business entities and government agencies to ensure its websites are accessible.

14. For a website to be equally accessible to a blind or visually impaired person, under these guidelines, it should have the following:

a. Alternative text (“alt-text”) or text equivalent for every non-text element. Alt-text is an invisible code embedded beneath a graphical image on a website. Web accessibility requires that alt-text be coded with each picture so that screen-reading software can speak the alt-text where a sighted user sees pictures, which includes captcha prompts. Alt-text does not change the visual presentation, but instead a text box shows when the mouse moves over the picture. The lack of alt-text on these graphics prevents screen readers from accurately vocalizing a description of the graphics, depriving that person from knowing what is on the website.

b. Videos have audio description.

c. Title frames with text are provided. Absent these titles, navigating a website is particularly difficult.

d. Webpage headings are properly labeled with the topic or purpose of the webpage, versus being blank. Screen readers read out page headings, allowing users to quickly skip to a section. Navigation is, however, very difficult without those headings.

- e. Equivalent text is provided when using scripts.
- f. Forms may be completed with the same information and functionality as for sighted persons. Absent forms being properly labeled, it is difficult for a visually impaired or blind individual to complete the forms, as they do not know what the fields, how to input data, or what options to select (e.g., selecting a date or a size). A compliant website will, instead, provide labels or instructions when content requires user input. This includes captcha prompts, requiring the user to verify that he or she is not a robot.
- g. Information about the meaning and structure of content is conveyed by more than the visual presentation of content.
- h. Web pages do not share the same ID or title. When two or more elements on a web page share the same ID or title, it causes problems in screen readers which use IDs for labeling controls and table headings.
- i. Linked images must contain alt-text explaining the image. Absent that alt-text, a screen reader has no content to present the user as to what the image is.
- j. The purpose of each link is easily determined from how the link is labeled. Absent properly labeling each link or when no description exists, it confuses keyboard and screen-reader users as they do not know the purpose of the links. This includes captcha prompts.
- k. No redundant links where adjacent links go to the same URL address. When redundant links exist, it causes additional navigation and repetition for keyboard and screen-reader users.

1. Portable Document Formats (PDFs) are accessible. When they are inaccessible, the visually impaired or blind individual cannot learn what information is on them.

m. One or more keyboard operable user interface has a mode of operation where the keyboard focus indicator is discernible.

n. Changing the setting of a user interface component does not automatically cause a change of content where the user has not been advised before using the component.

o. The name and role of all user interface elements can be programmatically determined; items that can be set by the user can be programmatically set; and/or notification of changes to these items are available to user agents, including assistive technology.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Defendant, Its Website And Its Website's Barriers

15. Defendant offers live sports betting online through its Website. Through its Website, consumers can place wagers on live sports, including football, baseball, soccer, basketball, tennis, and more. Consumers win money based on how teams and players perform in a particular game. Additionally, Defendant's sportsbook offers point spreads, money lines, parley bets, and over/under contests that consumers can place wagers.

16. The Website is heavily integrated with its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations. Through the Website, customers can place wagers on Defendant's sportsbook in a variety of different sports, including soccer, basketball, tennis, baseball, and more, make prop and parlay bets, learn about the point spread, money line, and over and under lines for a particular team or game, access the sports house rules, learn about banking information, create an account, read the sports betting blog, and access the sports betting guide. It is also where potential customers can learn about payment methods and get contact information.

17. Defendant purposely markets its online live sports betting service and online retail and gaming operations to those in the State of New York.

18. Defendant generates revenue from advertising and from its online live sports betting service.

19. Plaintiff Fischler visited Defendant's Website to create an account and use Defendant's online live sports betting service.

20. Plaintiff Fischler intends to return to Defendant's Website if it becomes accessible because Plaintiff Fischler would like to use Defendant's online live sports betting service.

21. It is, upon information and belief, Defendant's policy and practice to deny Plaintiff Fischler and other blind or visually-impaired users access to its Website, thereby denying the facilities and services that are offered and integrated with its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations. Due to its failure and refusal to remove access barriers to its Website, Plaintiff Fischler and visually-impaired persons have been and are still being denied equal access to Defendant's online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations and the numerous facilities, goods, services, and benefits offered to the public through its Website.

22. Plaintiff Fischler cannot use a computer without the assistance of screen-reading software. He is, however, a proficient screen-reader user and uses it to access the Internet. He has visited the Website on separate occasions using screen-reading software.

23. During his visits to the Website, including on January 27, 2022 and April 27, 2022, Plaintiff Fischler encountered multiple access barriers that denied him the full enjoyment of the facilities, goods, and services of the Website, as well as to the goods and services of Defendant's online retail operations. Because of these barriers he was unable to, substantially equal to sighted individuals:

a. Know what is on the Website. This is in part due to the fact that images are poorly labeled with no alternative text. For example, on the home page, all the images are labeled as "RG-MG" or "theme-fb," which is not helpful to Plaintiff Fischler. There is also no use of ARIA on the home page. For instance, after expanding the Terms and Conditions option, Plaintiff Fischler tried to collapse the option by clicking the "minus" sign, but there is no use of ARIA alerting Plaintiff Fischler that he successfully collapsed the option. Additionally, when placing screen reader focus on the Payment Method option, Plaintiff Fischler kept getting the message "modifier down arrow head," which ultimately confused Plaintiff Fischler as he did not know what to click to access the content under the Payment Method option. With sighted assistance, Plaintiff Fischler expanded the Payment Method option, but all images depicting the different payment methods offered by Defendant are not detected by the screen reader and therefore he needed sighted assistance to learn about the different payment options offered by Defendant. There are also no heading navigations on the "Contact Us" home page. On the "Contact Us" home page, sighted users are given a list of topics to choose from, and upon selecting a topic, sighted users automatically get another list of options. When Plaintiff Fischler clicked on “Sports Betting Rules,” screen reader focus was not automatically placed on the new list of options, but rather, he was forced to arrow down through every option before accessing the list of options related to the “Sports Betting Rules” topic. Moreover, after clicking the “How does a particular bet work?” option, he kept getting the message “error for site owner invalid key.” He encountered the same problems when clicking on the other options under the “Sports Betting Rules” topic and therefore the “Contact Us” home page is entirely inaccessible to Plaintiff Fischler.

b. Navigate the Website. Plaintiff Fischler had difficulty navigating this Website and participating in a live online sports betting contest. When clicking on “Football,” sighted users see the game lines for the January 30, 2022, Bengals vs. Chiefs game, including seeing the money, spread and game lines for each team. However, when clicking on “Football,” Plaintiff Fischler kept getting the message “+7.5, -120” for the Bengals, which is not helpful to Plaintiff Fischler. For sighted users, it is apparent that the “+7.5” pertains to the spread line for the Bengals and the “-120” is the total line for the Bengals. However, this information was detected by the screen reader as a long string of text without making it apparent to Plaintiff Fischler what information each number pertained to. Plaintiff Fischler needed sighted assistance to learn what the spread, total, and money line was for the game. Additionally, all the images on the home page were detected as file names, which again was not helpful to Plaintiff Fischler. Moreover, when sighted users want to select a spread or total line, and place a wager, they click on the spread or total number, the option is then automatically highlighted and on the “Bet Slip” option, they can see their selection and enter the amount of wager they would like to place. However, when Plaintiff Fischler accessed the information for the spread, total, and money lines, the screen reader detected this information as text and it was not labeled as “clickable” and he needed sighted to assistance to learn that each number was clickable. When Plaintiff Fischler tried to select “+7.5” spread line for the Bengals, no new content is loaded, and he cannot see his selection listed under the “Bet Slip” option. Plaintiff Fischler encountered the same problem when trying to make a selection on the January 30, 2022, Lakers v. 76ers game. After clicking on “Basketball,” there are no heading navigations on the home page and Plaintiff Fischler needed sighted assistance to know that he can search for the word “spread” to access the spread, total, and money line for the game. Once he accessed the spread line, the spread, total, and money line was again detected by the screen reader as a long string of text, making it difficult for Plaintiff Fischler to know what information each number pertained to. Plaintiff Fischler kept getting the message “+2.5, -110,” without knowing which number was the spread, total, or money line. When Plaintiff Fischler tried selecting the spread line “+2.5,” no new content is loaded, and he cannot again see his selection listed under the “Bet Slip” option and place his wager on the game. Additionally, when trying to create an account, sighted users are asked to enter their personal information. When Plaintiff Fischler clicked on “register,” the form fields in the form are not properly labeled. For example, after entering his email and password, the screen reader detected two edit fields and Plaintiff Fischler did not know what information to enter for each edit field. He needed sighted assistance to learn that he had to enter his first and last name in the edit fields. Because there is no way for Plaintiff Fischler to place a wager on any live sporting game on Defendant's Website, he ultimately abandoned the process and was unable to create an account and use Defendant's online live sports betting service.

24. Plaintiff Fischler was denied full and equal access to the facilities and services Defendant offers to the public on its Website because he encountered multiple accessibility barriers that visually-impaired people often encounter with non-compliant websites:

- a. Images are not properly labeled.
- b. The element button must not appear as a descendant of the A element.
- c. The interactive element buttons must not appear as a descendant of the A element.
- d. Webpages use script to create a blinking effect.
- e. The text and background colors do not have a 7:1 contrast ratio.
- f. Do not use the meta viewport tag to disable zoom.
- g. Webpages do not use the lang attribute to identify the language of the page, which allows screen readers to pronounce words correctly.

Defendant Must Remove Barriers to Its Website

25. Due to the inaccessibility of its Website, blind and visually-impaired customers such as Plaintiff Fischler, who need screen-readers, cannot fully and equally use or enjoy the facilities, goods, and services Defendant offers to the public on its Website. The Website's access barriers that Plaintiff Fischler encountered have caused a denial of his full and equal access in the past, and now deter him on a regular basis from accessing and visiting the Website. These access barriers have likewise deterred him from visiting Defendant's Website and taking advantage of its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations and enjoying it equal to sighted individuals.

26. If the Website was equally accessible to all, Plaintiff Fischler could independently navigate it, learn about the information provided on the Website, take advantage of the free information and services contained on the Website, participate in contests, and place a wager, as sighted users can.

27. Through his attempts to use the Website, Plaintiff Fischler has actual knowledge of the access barriers that make these services inaccessible and independently unusable by blind and visually-impaired people.

28. Because simple compliance with the WCAG 2.1 AA Guidelines would provide Plaintiff Fischler and other visually-impaired consumers with equal access to the Website, Plaintiff Fischler alleges that Defendant has engaged in acts of intentional discrimination, including, but not limited to, the following policies or practices:

a. Constructing and maintaining a website that is inaccessible to visually-impaired individuals, including Plaintiff Fischler;

b. Failing to construct and maintain a website that is sufficiently intuitive to be equally accessible to visually-impaired individuals, including Plaintiff Fischler; and,

c. Failing to take actions to correct these access barriers in the face of substantial harm and discrimination to blind and visually impaired consumers, such as Plaintiff Fischler, as a member of a protected class.

29. Defendant therefore uses standards, criteria or methods of administration that have the effect of discriminating or perpetuating the discrimination of others, as alleged herein.

30. Title III of the ADA expressly contemplates the injunctive relief that Plaintiff Fischler seeks under 42 U.S.C. § 12188(a)(2).

31. Because its Website has never been equally accessible, and because Defendant lacks a corporate policy that is reasonably calculated to cause its Website to become and remain accessible, Plaintiff Fischler seeks a permanent injunction under 42 U.S.C. § 12188(a)(2) requiring Defendant to retain a qualified consultant acceptable to Plaintiff Fischler to assist Defendant to comply with WCAG 2.1 AA guidelines for its Website:

- a. Remediating the Website to be WCAG 2.1 AA compliant;
- b. Training Defendant's employees and agents who develop the Website on accessibility compliance under the WCAG 2.1 AA guidelines;
- c. Regularly checking the accessibility of the Website under the WCAG 2.1 AA guidelines;
- d. Regularly testing user accessibility by blind or vision-impaired persons to ensure that Defendant's Website complies with the WCAG 2.1 AA guidelines; and,
- e. Developing an accessibility policy that is clearly disclosed on Defendant's Website, with contact information for users to report accessibility-related problems.

32. Although Defendant may currently have centralized policies on maintaining and operating its Website, Defendant lacks a plan and policy reasonably calculated to make them fully and equally accessible to, and independently usable by, blind and other visually impaired consumers.

33. Without injunctive relief, Plaintiff Fischler and other visually impaired consumers will continue to be unable to independently use the Website, violating its rights.

34. Defendant has, upon information and belief, invested substantial sums in developing and maintaining its Website and has generated significant revenue from the Website. These amounts are far greater than the associated cost of making its Website equally accessible to visually impaired customers.

35. Defendant has failed to take any prompt and equitable steps to remedy its discriminatory conduct. These violations are ongoing.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

36. Plaintiff Fischler seeks to certify a nationwide class under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a) and 23(b)(2): all legally blind individuals in the United States who have attempted to access Defendant's Website and as a result have been denied equal access to Defendant's Website and its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations during the relevant statutory period ("Class Members").

37. Plaintiff Fischler seeks to certify a State of New York subclass under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a) and 23(b)(2): all legally blind individuals in the State of New York who have attempted to access the Website and as a result have been denied equal access to Defendant's Website and its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations during the relevant statutory period ("New York Subclass Members").

38. Plaintiff Fischler seeks to certify a New York City subclass under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a) and 23(b)(2): all legally blind individuals in the New York City who have attempted to access the Website and as a result have been denied equal access to Defendant's Website and its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations during the relevant statutory period ("New York City Subclass Members").

39. Common questions of law and fact exist amongst the Class Members, New York Subclass Members and New York City Subclass Members:

- a. Whether Defendant's Website is a place of "public accommodation";
- b. Whether Defendant's Website is a commercial marketplace;
- c. Whether the Website is a "public accommodation" or a service or a good "of a place of public accommodation" under Title III of the ADA;
- d. Whether the Website is a "place or provider of public accommodation" or an "accommodation, advantage, facility or privilege" under the NYSHRL or NYCHRL;
- e. Whether the Website denies the full and equal enjoyment of its goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to people with visual disabilities, violating Title III of the ADA; and

f. Whether Defendant's Website denies the full and equal enjoyment of its goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to people with visual disabilities, violating the NYSHRL or NYCHRL.

40. Plaintiff Fischler's claims are typical of the Class Members, New York Subclass Members and New York City Subclass Members: they are all severely visually impaired or otherwise blind, and claim that Defendant has violated Title III of the ADA, NYSHRL or NYCHRL by failing to update or remove access barriers on its Website so it can be independently accessible to the visually impaired individuals.

41. Plaintiff Fischler will fairly and adequately represent and protect the Class and Subclasses' interests because he has retained and is represented by counsel competent and experienced in complex class action litigation, and because he has no interests antagonistic to the Class or Subclasses. Class certification of the claims is appropriate under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2) because Defendant has acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the Class and Subclasses, making appropriate both declaratory and injunctive relief with respect to Plaintiff, the Class and Subclasses.

42. Alternatively, class certification is appropriate under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3) because fact and legal questions common to Class and Subclass Members predominate over questions affecting only individuals, and because a class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this litigation.

43. Judicial economy will be served by maintaining this lawsuit as a class action in that it is likely to avoid the burden that would be otherwise placed upon the judicial system by the filing of numerous similar suits by people with visual disabilities throughout the United States.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION VIOLATIONS OF THE ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12181 et seq.

44. Plaintiff Fischler, individually and on behalf of the Class Members, repeats and realleges every allegation of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

45. Title III of the ADA prohibits “discriminat[ion] on the basis of disability in the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of any place of public accommodation by any person who owns, leases (or leases to), or operates a place of public accommodation.” 42 U.S.C. § 12182(a).

46. Defendant’s Website is a commercial marketplace and a public accommodation under Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12181(7). Its Website is a service, privilege, or advantage of Defendant’s online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations. The Website is a service that is integrated with its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations.

47. Under Title III of the ADA, it is unlawful discrimination to deny individuals with disabilities the opportunity to participate in or benefit from the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of an entity. 42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(1)(A)(i).

48. Under Title III of the ADA, it is unlawful discrimination to deny individuals with disabilities an opportunity to participate in or benefit from the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodation, which is equal to the opportunities afforded to other individuals. 42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(1)(A)(ii).

49. Under Title III of the ADA, unlawful discrimination also includes, among other things:

[A] failure to make reasonable modifications in policies, practices, or procedures, when such modifications are necessary to afford such goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to individuals with disabilities, unless the entity can demonstrate that making such modifications would fundamentally alter the nature of such goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages or accommodations; and a failure to take such steps as may be necessary to ensure that no individual with a disability is excluded, denied services, segregated or otherwise treated differently than other individuals because of the absence of auxiliary aids and services, unless the entity can demonstrate that taking such steps would fundamentally alter the nature of the good, service, facility, privilege, advantage, or accommodation being offered or would result in an undue burden.

42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(2)(A)(ii)-(iii).

50. These acts violate Title III of the ADA, and the regulations promulgated thereunder. Plaintiff Fischler, who is a member of a protected class of persons under Title III of the ADA, has a physical disability that substantially limits the major life activity of sight within the meaning of 42 U.S.C. §§ 12102(1)(A)-(2)(A). Furthermore, he has been denied full and equal access to the Website, has not been provided services that are provided to other patrons who are not disabled, and has been provided services that are inferior to the services provided to non-disabled persons.

51. Under 42 U.S.C. § 12188 and the remedies, procedures, and rights set forth and incorporated therein, Plaintiff Fischler requests the relief as set forth below.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION VIOLATIONS OF THE NYSHRL

52. Plaintiff Fischler, individually and on behalf of the New York Subclass Members, repeats and realleges every allegation of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

53. Defendant's Website is a commercial marketplace and constitutes a sales establishment and public accommodation under N.Y. Exec. Law § 292(9). Defendant's Website is a service, privilege or advantage of Defendant's online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations. Defendant's Website is a service that is by and integrated with these online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations.

54. Defendant is subject to NYSHRL because it owns and operates its New York online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations and the Website. Defendant is a "person" under N.Y. Exec. Law § 292(1).

55. Defendant is violating the NYSHRL in refusing to update or remove access barriers to its Website, causing its Website and the services integrated with its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations to be completely inaccessible to the blind. This inaccessibility denies blind patrons full and equal access to the facilities, goods and services that Defendant makes available to the non-disabled public. N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 296(2)(a), 296(2)(c)(i), 296(2)(c)(ii).

56. Readily available, well-established guidelines exist on the Internet for making websites accessible to the blind and visually impaired. These guidelines have been followed by other large business entities and government agencies in making their websites accessible, including but not limited to: adding alt-text to graphics and ensuring that all functions can be performed using a keyboard. Incorporating the basic components to make its Website accessible would neither fundamentally alter the nature of its business nor result in an undue burden to them.

57. Defendant's actions constitute willful intentional discrimination against the class because of a disability, violating the NYSHRL, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(2), in that Defendant has:

- a. Constructed and maintained a website that is inaccessible to Class Members with knowledge of the discrimination; and/or
- b. Constructed and maintained a website that is sufficiently intuitive and/or obvious that is inaccessible to blind class members; and/or
- c. Failed to take actions to correct these access barriers in the face of substantial harm and discrimination to blind class members.

58. Defendant discriminates and will continue in the future to discriminate against Plaintiff Fischler and New York Subclass Members on the basis of disability in the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, accommodations and/or opportunities of Defendant's Website and its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations under § 296(2) et seq. and/or its implementing regulations. Unless the Court enjoins Defendant from continuing to engage in these unlawful practices, Plaintiff and the New York Subclass Members will continue to suffer irreparable harm.

59. As Defendant's actions violate the NYSHRL, Plaintiff Fischler seeks injunctive relief to remedy the discrimination, compensatory damages, civil penalties and fines under N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(4)(c) et seq. for every offense, and reasonable attorneys' fees and costs.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
VIOLATIONS OF THE NYCHRL

60. Plaintiff Fischler, individually and on behalf the New York City Subclass Members, repeats and realleges every allegation of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

61. Defendant's Website is a commercial marketplace and constitutes a sales establishment and public accommodation under the NYCHRL, N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-102(9), and its Website is a service that is integrated with those establishments.

62. Defendant is subject to NYCHRL because it owns and operates its Website and its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations, making it a person under N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-102(1).

63. Defendant is violating the NYCHRL in refusing to update or remove access barriers to its Website, causing its Website and the services integrated with its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations to be completely inaccessible to the blind. This inaccessibility denies blind patrons full and equal access to the facilities, goods, and services that Defendant makes available to the non-disabled public. N.Y.C. Admin. Code §§ 8-107(4)(a), 8-107(15)(a).

64. Defendant's actions constitute willful intentional discrimination against the Subclass because of a disability, violating the NYCHRL, N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-107(4)(a) and § 8-107(15)(a,) in that it has:

a. Constructed and maintained a website that is inaccessible to blind class members with knowledge of the discrimination; and/or

b. Constructed and maintained a website that is sufficiently intuitive and/or obvious that is inaccessible to blind class members; and/or

c. Failed to take actions to correct these access barriers in the face of substantial harm and discrimination to blind class members.

65. As such, Defendant discriminates, and will continue in the future to discriminate against Plaintiff Fischler and the New York City Subclass Members because of disability in the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, accommodations and/or opportunities of its Website under § 8-107(4)(a) and/or its implementing regulations. Unless the Court enjoins Defendant from continuing to engage in these unlawful practices, Plaintiff and the New York City Subclass will continue to suffer irreparable harm.

66. As Defendant's actions violate the NYCHRL, Plaintiff Fischler seeks injunctive relief to remedy the discrimination, compensatory damages, civil penalties and fines for each offense, and reasonable attorneys' fees and costs. N.Y.C. Admin. Code §§ 8-120(8), 8-126(a).

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION
DECLARATORY RELIEF

67. Plaintiff Fischler, individually and on behalf the Class Members, repeats and realleges every allegation of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

68. An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between the parties in that Plaintiff Fischler contends, and is informed and believes that Defendant denies, that its Website contains access barriers denying blind customers the full and equal access to the goods, services and facilities of its Website and by extension its online live sports betting services and online retail and gaming operations, which Defendant owns, operates and controls, fails to comply with applicable laws including, but not limited to, Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 12182, et seq., N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, et seq., and N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-107, et seq. prohibiting discrimination against the blind.

69. A judicial declaration is necessary and appropriate now in order that each of the parties may know its respective rights and duties and act accordingly.

PRAAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff Fischler respectfully requests this Court grant the following relief:
